Cochrane Times — The Cochrane Times Newsmaker of the Year award for the third straight year had a strong youth component, as it was presented to the Cochrane High School Sustainable Development Committee for the work they did over the past year-plus on their solar panel project at the school.

The committee was selected for being the first school in Canada to undertake such a project, for their efforts to raise over $50,000 towards the project and for garnering nationwide attention for their efforts, including a visit from renowned environmental scientist Dr. David Suzuki, and winning a prestigious 2005 Emerald Award.
